

Wellness Rewards Administration

Managing Programs for Healthier Behaviors

More companies are introducing Wellness plans that motivate their employees to improve their health habits and behaviors. Now Benesyst can help improve how those programs reward and measure their progress.

Helping Wellness Rewards Programs Run Faster and Better

Healthier employees make for a more productive workforce. That's why many companies are using Wellness programs to reward their staff for improved health behaviors. But managing the additional paperwork that the eligibility, approval and reimbursement process require can weigh down your human resource department. That's where Benesyst can help.

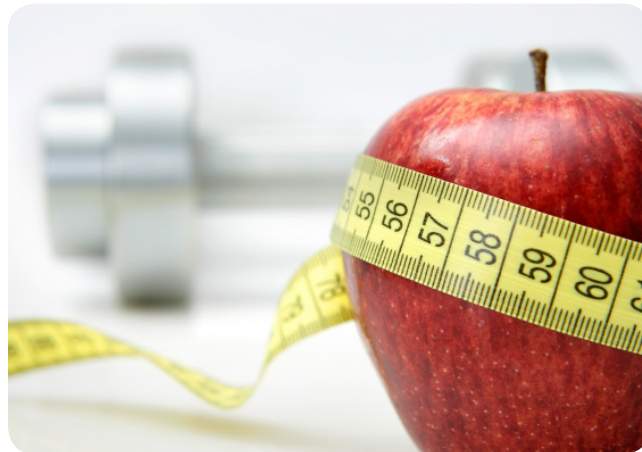

Benesyst has been offering systems that automate administering human resource benefits for over seventeen years. We've developed a suite of online applications that turn the paper mill most reimbursement programs generate into something lean and green. We specialize in providing our clients and their employees with web-based tools that are easy, fast, reliable and practically paperless. And we have one of the best customer care teams in the industry, ready to respond with the right answers, right away.

Providing employees with Wellness incentives shows a sincere commitment to their well-being, and to keeping the organization running in top shape. Benesyst is equally committed to providing your management and human resources team with tools to keep those goals on track.

For more information about how Benesyst can make your Wellness Rewards program easier and worry-free, contact your Benesyst client executive today.

www.benesyst.net
sales@benesyst.net
(866) 786-3366

Excellence in benefit administration since 1993.

Selection and Services That Support Healthy Choices

Benesyst's Wellness Rewards Administrative services are designed to keep your employee engaged and motivated to reach their health goals, while reducing the burden on management. Without an easy to use process, backed by a caring and knowledgeable account and support team, employees may discontinue their participation in the programs that were instated to help them stay healthy.

That is why we provide:

- Flexibility to select company's preferred programs for weight, health, smoking cessation and others
- Online enrollment tools that are easy to access, navigate and understand
- Eligibility rules and procedures that align with a company's selected program
- Optional carrier feeds to increase efficiency
- Claims and reimbursement processing that are fast and practically paperless
- Communications that are informative, timely and customizable
- Customer care that has the right knowledge and approach to resolve issues and answer questions

Employers who offer Health and Fitness programs to their employees know that to work well you have to be well. Benesyst's Wellness Rewards Administration services can help get those important programs running in top shape.

